The Adaptable Dog

This type of personality in a canine is eager to please in any environment and will control her enthusiasm in favor of doing something that will make her owner happy. The easiest to train, since they have such a strong desire to please. They are friendly without being overly exuberant and they mind their people. They tend to get along with people, other dogs, and cats, and can make great therapy dogs due to their calm, loving nature.

Affectionate and good natured describes the Husky. Generally family and children oriented, they tend to also get along well with most people and in homes with multiple dogs. This friendly and gentle being makes a great companion.

HEALTH & GROOMING

Short hair is the reason that Husky and Husky mixed breeds require less grooming than most canines. However due to a genetic skin condition received at birth Precious requires weekly brushing and baths. Her skin can become very dry and irritated requiring her to see a vet for medicated shampoo to help alleviate painful redness or itching. A very healthy dog, Precious is up to date on vaccines and remains heartworm negative with annual check ups. Spayed and playful like a puppy despite her age this girl is ready to go to her forever home.
